Kahnawake.com re-launches

For immediate release

(Kahnawá:ke – 25, Kenténha / October 2007) The Mohawk Council of Kahnawá:ke (MCK) is pleased to announce that it will launch a new version of the Kahnawake.com website at 9am today (Thursday).

The new website includes structural and visual improvements that are geared towards keeping Kahnawa'kehró:non and other visitors informed of MCK-related activities and services, and interactive ways of providing feedback.

Through Kahnawake.com, users can access detailed information about each Unit and the services that they provide to community members in an interactive, visually appealing way. Visitors will be able to access application forms, documents and promotional information of each Unit and its services through audio, video and graphical tools.

"This approach will provide users with an easier, more informative online experience. If viewers can find the information they need - and enjoy it at the same time – then we've done our job." says web designer Justus Polson-Lahache.

The Kahnawake.com website will be updated as information becomes available, and we hope that visitors utilize the website as their source for information. To access the website, visit: <http://www.kahnawake.com>
